Leaders Fail to Arouse Enthusiasm in Democratic Primary.

Luray, Va., August 6.—The primary election in Page County was a tame affair in many sections. Strong Democrats forgot that a primary was being held. With two precincts missing, John Gariand Pollard has $22 votes, Waiter G. Mapp 71 and Rosswell Page 13.

The large voting precincts of the county gave Pollard heavy majorities, though at Honeyville, in Shenandosh District, Mapp, an ultradry, has 22 majority over Pollard, with Page trailing with one vote. It has been impossible to enthuse Democratic voters or get them to the polls, despite heavy work that has been done by the Pollard adherents.

The two missing precincts in Page County will probably swell Pollard's majority to 400. Charles C. Louderback, Democratic candidate for the legislature from this district, composed of Page and Warren Counties, still faces heavy opposition when the Republicans name a candidate.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Aug. 6.—In a light, normal primary vote here today. Clarke County gave John Garland Follard, candidate for the regular Democratic nomination for Governor of Virginia, an overwhelming majority over his opponents. Senator Walter Mapp and Rosewell Page. Follard received 564 votes as against 36 for Senator Mapp and 7 for Page. In the town of Berryville Pollard polled 212 votes while Mapp and Page received only 9 and 2, respectively. Four years ago when Senator Mapp opposed Gov. Byrd for the Democratic nomination for governor, the county polled the abnormally large vote of 318. The normal primary vote here, however, is not in excess of 700, so it appears that the vast majority of the normal primary ballot and a substantial majority of the maximum vote possible have been committed to the Democratic nominee for governor by the appearance at the polls today of a sufficient number of voters to cast for the three candidates for the Democratic nomination the total of 607 votes.

There was no reason to believe that this county, always strongly Democratic, and overwhelmingly so during the presidential election last November, will give more than a minimum support to the Republican fusionist candidate for governor, Dr. William M. The voters went to the polis early, and as there were no contests for local or county offices a count was returned, soon after closing—of the ballot.

Dañville, Va., Aug. 6.—Pollard scored a complete victory in today's primary, defeating his nearest competitor, Mapp. by 301 votes. The vote was: Mapp. 206: Page, 50, and Pollard, 506. It was the lightest vote ever recorded in a Danville primary, little more than 700 votes being cast out of a potential 5,500. The polling places were deserted most of the day and the voting clerks and judges eat around and fanned themselves and read to wear away the fourteen voting hours. There was no challenging. Many tired Democrats admitted they were waiting for November. Uncontested city and State local officers received a high complimentary vote and there was little slashing. Danville's total vote was in within the hour.

The next seven years of Pollard's life was spent at William and Mary College, where he held the office of dean of Marshall Wythe school of government and citizenship and was professor of constitutional law and Virginia government. During the seven-year period he instructed more than 3,000 young Virginians in the principles of government.

This year's race for the nomination was Pollard's second. He was defeated in 1917 by Westmoreland Davis. Prior to his candidacy for the nomination he served four years, 1913-17, as attorney general of Virginia. He was a member of the constitutional convention, 1901-2, and chairman of the Virginia commission on uniform State laws, 1902-7. He edited the Virginia Code, annotated, 1904.

Most of Pollard's life prior to the World War was spent in Richmond. He graduated from the literary department of Richmond College in 1891 and two years later received the bachelor of laws degrees at Columbian, now George Washington, University, Washington, D. C.

ARBITRATION TREATY WITH CANADA URGED

Supplement to Kellogg Pact Is Proposed by McGill, University Dean.

WOULD AVOID DISPUTES

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 6 (A.P.)
The need of a separate arbitration treaty between the United States and Canada, in addition to the Kellogg pact, was urged today by Dean P. E.
Corbett, of McGill University, international relations expert.

Speaking before the Canadian-American relations round table of the fastitute of Politics, Dean Corbett

"There should be a simple, frank treaty between the United States, and Canada which will carry disputes between the two nations to arbitration. "The Kellogg pact does not cover the situation because its agreed reservations are vague and little understood, and so much has been written about it that very few people have much confidence in it when it comes to specific matters. to specific matters

"All types of disputes are not covered by any treaty. If there were a separate treaty between the two countries that anxiety could be disposed of." posed of."

There are times, said Dean Corbett, when in Canada there is much animosity against the United States, and in such times a treaty between the two countries would safeguard the feelings of the people.

Caribbean Area Discussed.

Prof. Harry T. Collings, of the University of Pennsylvanis, former special agent in the Latin-American division of the Department of Commerce, said foreign loans were the chief source of trouble in the Caribbean area.

"Borrowed funds—and they total a vast amount—are not used for rail-road construction or highway building, but are squandered," said Prof. Collings. "Caribbean loans are appropriated for unfair or undesirable or personal ends. They have led to dissension and trouble both because of the way they were so heavy that the people couldn't repay them. If the Caribbean area is ever to have an economic standing it must be kept free from foreign leans." ea is ever to have an economic inding it must be kept free from leign loans."

Because of the much greater deciline in prices since 1919 than has been recorded aince 1925, there would be a wide discrepancy between the valuations arrived at on the two bases, the 1919 price base resulting in a much greater reduction in amount the company could claim for subsequent, additions, even if it makes its point stick that the utilities commission may not go behind valuation, declared after the hearings were adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, that even on the basis of Hanna's own figures the company claimed a valuation which it admitted was $40.443 too high. Company officers, however, declared that Hanna's figures had been based on gross capital additions, which made the result work out a lower valuation than would have been arrived at had the company used net additions, as it was entitled to do. Another point which was touched on was that Hanna adjusted his capital additions, on the basis of weighted indices. From year to year, instead of applying the proper 1936 figure to the whole amount of additions as of December 31, 1928. Company officers insisted, however, that the method they had followed was the only proper method, because otherwise some of the additions would be given too much credit in the total. During a company of relain weight.

of the additions would be given too much credit in the total. During a period of rising prices, Hanna's method would result in a smaller total for the company, but during t period of failing prices it would work for the benefit of the company.

Another point on which fare-raise epponents found fault with Hanna's reproduction figures was that a different basis was used in the 1925 court valuation for that used by the traction president. The price index used by Bailey in the court valuation was said to have been considerably lower than those used by Hanna.

Bailey's prices were said not to have run over 190 as of 1924, while Hanna's began with more than 200 as of 1925.

Other Questions Forecast.

Other Questions Forecast.

These questions Forecast.

These questions are expected to be developed when the hearings are resumed today. Members of the commission indicated yeaterday that they have several questions to ask along these lines, and additional information is to be developed for the record as to just what basis was used in the Court of Appeals valuation. When the hearings ended yeaterday the question was still in the air. Hartman having quoted one section of the decree and Dunlop having countered with what he said was another price basis approved by the court in the Bailey exhibit.

Decision on the motion of Clayton that the Washington Rapid Transit Co. be made a party to the hearing was postponed by the commission after listening to arguments by George P. Hoover, attorney for the bus company, who opposed the motion, and Clayton and Havenner and Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel, who sought to have the company brought into the case.

Hoover said that his company did not object to the commission undertaking to value its property. That is something former commissions have not done. Hoover said the company claimed a valuation in excess of $800,000. He insisted, however, that the bus company be treated as a separate question. Because inclusion of the bus company would increase very materially the probabilities of a revaluation of the street car companies, both the Capital Traction and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. supported Hoover in his opposition to Clayton.

Federal authorities today found themselves confronted by two versions of the affair immediately preceding Sandlands disappearance. One of them, offered by Mrs. Maxime Heath, wife of John M. The other version, offered by Mitton Larson, customs officer, and two fisherm, is that Sandlands was left to guard the selzed cruiser and its occupants, while Larson went to make his report and was seen by the fisher emen putting out into the river with the two persons.

River is Dragged.

Walter S. Petty, acting collector of customs, said this afternoon that Federal and local authorities were continuing to drag the river for the agent's body. He admitted that no definite clews had been uncovered and that Heath had not yet appeared to substantiate the story told by his wife last night.

Mrs. Heath appeared voluntarily at the customs office last night and told officials that Sandlands had boarded their boat without revealing his identity. Excess Valuation Charged.

Opponents of the fare raise, who have attacked the company's claimed valuation, declared after the hearings were adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, that even on the basis of Hanna's own figures the company claimed a valuation which it admitted was $40.443 too high. Clayton said that the present case involved question of unification of operations, transfer privileges, and many other questions and declared that "we may ask that the Washington Rapid Transit Co. be connected up with the street railways through transfer privileges which would be equitable and just to all concerned." The direct testimony of Heberle was ended yesterday afternoon after he had presented several additional exhibits for the company, showing the downward trend in passengers and revenues of the company for the last several years. He also put into the record exhibits showing the experience of car companies in several other cities.

TOO MUCH RED TAPE.

Although the Jones-White act was supposed to make it impossible for Washington bureaucracy to stifle development of the merchant marine, especially after Congress emphasized the act by appropriating money for ocean mail carriage, official red tape has been wound around the situation and practically nullified the generous provisions of the Jones-White law. One of the purposes of the act was to expedite the expansion of a privately owned merchant marine by granting liberal mail pay. Yet the most important ocean mail route, that of the North Atlantic, has been denied thus far the benefit of that part of the law. The failure to obtain a mail contract is reacting unfavorably upon the construction plans of the United States Lines, although the corporation is held bound by the Government to go forward with this construction.

While Germany with its Bremen and Great Britain with its newly launched ocean greyhounds are striving for commercial mastery of the North Atlantic route, the richest ocean business in the world, Americans are held back by delay and red tape at Washington. Americans are the principal patrons of the North Atlantic route, and the cream of the business should be under the American Flag. It is the intent of Congress that the American merchant marine, privately owned and operated, should be helped to take a commanding place upon the seas. Thus far the administrative end of the Government has failed to comply with the intent of Congress.

Too many departmental and interdepartmental boards, committees and commissions have been created to do the work that belongs to distinct detoone and refer to other authorities has reached an absurd point, in which it appears that the guiding rule of bureaucracy is to make sure that nothing shall be done. Many officials possessing authority are away on vacation, and their subordinates either fail to act or are lacking in authority. All they can do is to unwind red tape and wrap it around each proposition that comes up. The money appropriated by Congress for mail contracts is not employed for the purpose. The transfer of ships to private purchasers is needlessly delayed. In some instances Washington officialdom has become convinced that shipping concerns are likely to make money, which strikes officialdom as a heinous crime, although the Jones-White act, if it means anything at all, is intended to put the merchant marine upon a prosperous basis by providing loans at low rates, and by granting remunerative mail-carrying contracts.

Nothing is saved to the Government by delaying or refusing to enter into mail contracts authorized by Congress, and for which Congress has provided funds. After prompt and thorough verification of the propriety and necessity of making contracts, which can be done by competent authority within a few days, these contracts should be entered into, in order that the concerns that have the courage to undertake the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine shall not be thwarted in their efforts. That is what Congress intended, and that is what the public expects the administrative authorities to do without unnecessary delay.

DEPORT CHINESE GANGSTERS.

Since Sunday, when tong guns barked in Clicago and Newark, five Chinese have been kaled and several wounded. In Washington the police have taken precautions to preven nce, and leaders of the rival organizans have been warned that they must see to it that peace is preserved. In Chicago, New York, Boston and Newark the situation is reported as "tense" with extra details of police patrolling the Chinese sections and with the authorities momentarily expecting violence.

It should be easy to stop tong warfare once and for all. The better elements among the Chinese do not approve such violence and can be depended upon to cooperate with the authorities. The way to stop tong warfare lies in the deportation of the lawless element among the Chinese. United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, of New York, has threatened to bring about wholesale deportations if the trouble is not settled forthwith If the threat is not sufficient, Mr. Tuttle should not hesitate to act. Deportation of unruly Chinese will operate to the advantage of the many law-abiding, hard-working Chinese who reside within the United States. The latter should offer their assistance to the authorities in singling out those responsible for the present outbreak of lawlessness.

MAKE WASHINGTON THE TERMINUS.

When Dr. Eckener returned to Friedrichshafen with the dirigible Graf Zeppelin in 1928 he made his first public pronouncement regarding its shortcomings. "We know now," he said, "that our airships must be stronger." The flight completed last Sunday confirmed that opinion. Although it was completed easily and practically on schedule, Dr. Eckener describes the flight as a gesture of salesmanship, and talks of the new ships he will build for regular transatlantic service. These ships will be shorter, thicker and larger than the Graf, as well as far speedier. and they will be built as soon as financiers become convinced of the practicability of the dirigible. It is the mission of the Graf. says Dr. Eckener, to demonstrate to bankers the practicability of lighter-than-air commerce.

The practicability of the dirigible need no longer be doubted. The Graf, although not adapted to oceanic service, has done well. The British R-100, nearing completion, has a capacity 1,250,000 cubic feet greater than the Graf and is powered with eight as compared with the Graf's five motors, but even she is not looked upon by her designer, Commander Burney, as adequate to the re quirements of transatlantic flying. The R-100 will be superseded by the American ZRS-4, to be built for the Navy. The ZRS-4 will be twice as large as the Graf and larger than the R-100.

With the next two or three years promis ing to witness the development of a thoroughly practical transatlantic dirigible, it is time to give thought to terminal facilities for transatlantic air liners. Lakehurst will not be made the American port. Dr. Eckener has said on several occasions that the meteorological conditions prevailing in New Jersey make it advisable to search further south for the site for the American terminal and he suggests Baltimore or Richmond. But Washington is the ideal site for the airport of entry, not only because meteorological conditions are satisfactory, but also because t is the National Capital.

In connection with the local airport projec would be well to consider terminal facilities for transatlantic airships. It should be omparatively easy to convince operators of dirigible lines that Washington is the most desirable American terminus.

RUSHING WHEAT TO MARKET.

Stimulated by the advance in the price of wheat, the farmers of the Nation have been disposing of their crops and holdings at a rate that taxes storage and transportation facilities. It is estimated that there are 137,387,000 bushels on hand at commercial points as against 62,316,000 bushels at this time last year and the peak of November when there were 138,091,000 bushels on hand. This near-record concentration has depressed the price somewhat although the market has such strong finan partments. The tendency to investigate, cial support that there seems to be no fear break. Yet farmers in their haste to dispose of their crops and holdings are sacrificing the better prices that will be obained later in the year.

The movement of wheat has been great nough to inspire the Farm Board into mak ing a statement. "Under conditions which exist this season when all reports agree on a substantial reduction in world supply as compared with last year," says the board, "it seems unfortunate to crowd wheat onto the market faster than facilities can handle it. resulting in cash prices which are much lower than contract prices for future delivery." But the farmer will not be influenced by this statement. He remembers that a year ago prices slumped after early selling, and he is taking no chances. The situation emphasizes the need for an improved marketing machine, such as the Farm Board has in mind. Until it has been organized the farmer has little hope of mov ing his crop to best advantage. The mad rush to market indicates further. however, a trait of human nature that willembarrass the Farm Board. Prices being high, the farmer rushes to "get his." If the board should succeed in stabilizing the agricultural price level at a point high enough to assure a satisfactory income to all farmers-the purpose for which the board was organized-here will be another rush to "get theirs." and the tendency will be to expand acreage. No matter how efficient may be the marketing machine that is to be set up, an undue increase of acreage and the resulting surpluses will frustrate the scheme of farm relief.

NATIONAL PARKS IN THE EAST.

That area in the Blue Ridge Mountain: which will soon become Shenandoah National Park is described and pictured in a bool just off the press. The publication calls at tention to the progress which is being made toward creation of the second national park in the East. The State of Virginia is purchasing the land and as soon as title to it is turned over to the Federal Government the area will pass under control of the National Park Service. It will be a signincant event for nature lovers and vacationists of the Eastern States.

The national park movement took definite shape in 1873, when Yellowstone National Park was created. It was not long before other areas abounding in natural wonders and beautiful scenery secured protection and development from the Government. there are 21 national parks, all of which are in the West, except Acadia National Park in Maine. In addition the Government has created 32 national monuments to protect historic landmarks and objects of scientific interest. The Federal parks cover more than 12,000 square miles and require an appropriation of more than $4,500,000 annually for development and administration

Because of the rugged contours of the Rocky Mountain country it is quite natural that the national park movement should have developed first in the West. Some of the most sublime scenery in the world is now under protection of the Government. These areas are set apart for the use, health, and pleasure of the people of this and future generations. They are among the chief attractions to American travelers. Since the automobile has come into general use they draw an enormous patronage. In 1928 more than 3,000,000 visitors registered in the national parks and monuments.

The West has no monopoly on geological phenomena and attractive scenery. It is unfortunate that the East has delayed so long the development of its own recreational reources. The Interior Department demands that every area accepted as a national park be of importance to the Nation as a whole, This does not exclude the Eastern States from the national park field. Congress has already designated three areas for the establishment of parks of the first magnitude. These include the Shenandoah Park, the Great Smoky Park in North Carolina and Tennessee, and Mammoth Cave in Kentucky. Final acceptance of these regions is contingent upon the land being turned over free to the Government. If there are other areas which would be suitable for national park purposes, they can not be designated too soon. State parks can be created in regions of less than national significance. Development of a large number of great public playgrounds will be an invaluable asset to th

ATLAS OF DIALECTS.

There met last week at Yale University a group of students of philology to plan for the compilation and publication of an atlas of American dialects. Most of them had devoted their lifetimes to the study of the English language and after two days' dis cussion a comprehensive plan for the work

What is the need of an atlas of American dialects? Why should a permanent record be made of regions where it is customary to speak of a "bucket" rather than of a "pail," where the word "chemist" is used for "druggist," where "trousers" are "pants," where 'ain't" is not vulgar and where the split infinitive goes unnoticed? Such a record is desirable primarily because of the fact that American dialects are fast disappearing. The talkies and the radio have come along of recent years to influence a tendency toward standardized pronunciation but long before their advent came the railway and the motor car to make the American people nomads and to play a part in the obliteration of language Certain sections still drop the final 'r." and others add an "r" where none is written, but these sections are being brought ogether and there can no longer be doubt but that a standard American tongue is in process of creation. A hundred years from now there will be no purely localized tongues and then an atlas of American dialects will be an invaluable book. The students who met at Yale last week are to be commended for launching a movement for the compilation and publica-

RELATIONS WITH BRAZIL

Translated from O PAIZ, Rio de Janeiro. There is exceptional significance in the lews which the Brazilian Embassy at Washington has sent regarding the insertion in the record of the American Senate of the article in which The Washington Post, a newspaper highly considered in the United States, has dealt with the recent message to Congress of Mr. Washington Luis.

Facts emerge from it which are highly flattering to Brazil and which therefore make the compliment even more eloquent. The first result comes from the opinion which the important American daily expresses regarding the execution of the Government's program, and takes note that our country has occupied a situation parallel with their during the whole course of its constitutional

The Washington Post in its editorial ex presses a high opinion of the administration which the president of the republic is steadfastly carrying on without swerving from the fundamental ideas expressed in his plat This national feeling of appreciation in the United States is shown by the fact of the inclusion of the said editorial in the secord of the American Senate, which, if we remember rightly, is a unique experience

We must point out another more expres sive fact. The insertion of the article regarding the message of Mr. Washington Luis was made on the motion of a North American senator, Mr. Tasker L. Oddie, who supported the suggestion with a strong eulogy of the administrative work of the president and with a public acknowledgment of a frank, sincere and expressive American-

Brazilian cordiality. This fact is deeply significant of the results which the activity of our government produce abroad, and should be counted among those which not only exalt the states man who is worthy of praise, but honor and elevate the whole of Brazil.

The Child Need Not Fear a Path Suggested by the Father. By ROBERT QUILLEN

D ID it ever occur to you that the Giver of Line does not look upon death as a tragedy?

To men, who think in terms of time and the present, death seems the end of all good things; but if there is eternal life, the change called death must seem a trivial thing to the Master.

That is simple logic. God is compassionate. A compassionate God could not permit a thing as terrible as death seems. Therefore death Think of those who are unborn. They are alive and yet have drawn breath. If they could reason, and if they knew they faced the tem? In this city, cars run in groups ordeal called birth, they would be filled with dread. Their horror of entering the next phase of life-their fear of the unknown-would cause them to think birth the greatest of tragedies.

and doubtless they would pray to be saved from it, It is easy to believe that they would reproach God, as frightened men do, and cry in their fear: "Have compassion on us! It is cruel to let us end this existence we know. Save us from the horror of

It is ignorance that makes fear. The unborn, being ignorant of the more abundant life that come fter birth, might reproach God for his failure to save them. But we who have experienced birth and known life would the unbern: "You reproach God foolishly. The thing from which you ask to be saved is the greates of blessings. You dread it hecause you are ignorant. You think God cruel to permit it, but the motormen always stop at them, thus fact that he does permit it is proof that it isn't cruel. It is merely an incident. Face it cheerfully, for it is a door to larger life." Thus we in our wisdom would speak to the unborn if we could ommune with them, and thus, perhaps, we would be spoken to by those who have experienced the phenomenon of death if they could commune with us.

Men think death cruel and reproach God because he permits it; but isn't it obvious that a just and merciful God would not permit a useless cruelty?

The fact that we think death tragic doesn't make it so-any more than the unborn infant's foolish dread could make birth tragic. Even men, heartless as they are, would not permit death if they Then who can doubt that the Giver of all good could prevent it. things permits death because it is another good—a new ordeal of birth into a higher form of life.

Suggestions for the Improvement

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Do you realize that local street car service is no faster in the ordinary the rush hours? The cars actually coast along all the way, at a speed of about ten miles per hour. That kind of service is absurd, nor is it fair to the public. The only advantage of this type service is that the car finally reaches its destination, and that if you miss the car at one corner you can run to the next and catch it. The motorists of Washington slow the cars down considerably, especially in rush hours. Machines make a practice of shooting in front of cars, and stopping on the car tracks when the light turns red, or a traffic police-man signals stop. This last is especially annoying—the street car must stop behind the sutos until the light turns green, and then pull up and stop again to discharge passengers. By the time these have alighted the light is usually red again. Why not pass a law compelling motorists to keep off the tracks on narrow treets and at intersections?

And why not have an express sys-

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Law Makers Gathering On Capitol Hill

Old Section Is Favored By Many for Their Capital Homes.

Congressional hotels and apartments throughout the Capitol Hill area are centers of bussing activity. Paint glistens on the white piliars, new varnish on the floors. From the back yard comes the steady thud of a Persian rug beaten with hickory sticks. Little groups of politicians congregate on the versandas, arguing and laughing. Through latticed blinds one hears the insistent drone of bells, the clanging of the elevator as it disgorges its cargo of new arrivals, the tinkle of ice in many an ice-water pitcher with broken ears. Self-conscious and important, the liveried bell-hops dash to and frobearing stacks of blue and yellow messages, raucously paging some senator with strange, unintelligible sounds. Fostmen, special delivery messengers and porters are having a hard time of it these days. Telephones gurgle and clink to the frantic demands of long-distance operator, with messages from constituents and clients all over the United States. Capitol Hill is getting ready for a congressional season and does not care who knows it.

This is an annual event at Capitol Hill and the picture, if anything, is underdrawn rather than exaggerated. In recent months this quaint section of the city has regained a good deal of its lost prestige as the home of senators and representatives. More than ever is it the place where legislators feel it essential to Glive, in order to adequately attend to governmental affairs. In its boundaries, familiar to legislators for generations, they feel at ease. They are within a stone's throw of the Capitol. Difficulties of transportation, of distance, of time do not worry them. Every resident of the neighborhood knows the celebrities by sight. For years, the eccentricities habits, fads, likes and dislikes of visitors from all parts of the country have been treated with the kindly indulences of familiarity.

Champ Clark used to live in this section and, after trying to live in an apartment in another part of town, came back again for good. In fact, although they may not admit it. Capitol Hill is

OF CANNON'S LOANS

"I am hopeful," Tinkham said,
"that Attorney General Mitchell may be able to force from Bishop Cannon a full disclosure of the source of the $27,000 of loans and advancements which the bishop now insists he made personally to the committee.
"He leaves unanswered," the represenative continued, "the question that was asked him which lies at the heart of the matter, namely, whose money was it, from what source did he obtain the large sums which between August and November in 1928 he 'loaned' to the antiSmith Democratic committee? He has denied that any of this money has come from the treasury of his church board. He insinuates that it was his own money, but he dares not say so."

"Dr. Clarence True Wilson, its general secretary and spokesman," he said, "is like Bishop Cannon in that while protesting that my charges are unfounded and assalling me for preferring the charges, he has not offered to the Department of Justice the board's ledgers and records to prove his innocence."

All South had to do was hold up his Ace of Hearts until the third round and then if the Club finesse lost to East, East would have no Heart to lead; or if East had four Hearts originally, West could have had only four and East and West could have made only three Heart tricks and one Club. Played the correct way, Declarer would have been sure of his game.

With Ace and two others of the suit originally led against you in No Trump, and with no stopper in that suit in your dummy, it is generally good play to hold up the Ace until the third round. The rule to follow is: Hold up the Ace unless you see a sound reason for not doing so.

Banking Interests Come to Rescue of Tottering Stock Market.

COPPERS HEAVILY TAKEN

New York, Aug 6 (A.P.).—Powerful banking interests came to the rescue of a tottering stock market today. Prices reacted sharply during the morning, as heavy selling was spilled into the market by a 12 per cent renewal rate for call loans, the break on the Chicago Stock Exchange and a drop in wheat prices, but a sudden influx of funds carried the call money rate to 8 per cent in the afternoon and prices rallied briskly, regaining much of their losses.

The break at Chicago was particularly disturbing, as the first tremors of a general collapse on the security mightest have upon notable occasions in the past been felt on that market. Also, the high renewal rate for demand loans caused qualms in view of, the prospect of a further drain being imposed upon credit by an increase in the Benk of England's discount rate. Considerable nervousness was evident in brokerage house board rooms until confidence was partially restored by the quick action of the banks.

That the sharp drop in call money resulted from action to bolster confidence, rather than a normal easing of credit, was indicated by time meney rates, which followed a contrary course, very little money loaning at less than 9 per cent, even for tome of the longer maturities. The snug condition of credit was further indicated by the bulletin of the American Acceptance Council, which intimated that higher acceptance rates, with consejuent burden upon commerce, can not longer be avoided inless the Federal Reserve comes to the support of the bill market.

Prices Generally Are Shade Firmer; Most Losses Are Nominal.

FEDERAL' LIST, SOFTENS

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The bond market traveled over soft ground again today. Although prices were a shade firmer than on Monday the general tone was easy, especially in the rails. Recessions proved to be mostly nominal in the standard issues and no extensive liquidation was in progres, but the underlying sentiment seemed to be unfavorable with 9 per cent time money making its reappearance after a very brief absence.

Convertibles worked lower in an integral accession, early declines were mostly erased by midatternoon, but selling developed in the late trading and the close found most of the share privilege bonds lower. American Telephone 4½s made an extreme dip of about 6 points, closing at 200% for a net loss of 4½. International Telephone 4½s at one time where 4 points below the previous final, but railied to 173 for a one-point recession. Other convertibles showing losses on the day were Atchison 4½s, down 1½, American I. G. Chemical 5½s, down 1½, American I. G. Chemical 5½s, down 1½, American International 5½s, off 1½; Lautaro Nitrate 6s, down 1, and Reading Coal & Iron 6s, off 1½.

The general list showed some resistance to selling pressure in the forenoon, but numbers of the low coupon rails later yielded and worked lower. Fractional net losses appeared in Baltimore & Olrio 4s, Toledo & Cincinnati Division, 5t. Paul 5s, Denver & Rio Grande 5s, Erie Refunding 4s, Illinois Central 4½s and Bouthern Railway General 4s. Missouri Pacific General 4s, Nickel Plate 4s, Philippine Railway 4s and Lake Shore & Michigan Southern 4s dipped 1 to 2 points.

Industrials showed wide fluctuations. Steel issues were firm, but mixed. United States Government issues reflected the general sentiment by selling off, although in only one security, the Liberty Pirst 4½s, was there an appreciable turnover. Portage were dull with virtually all price changes fractional.

PLEASURE

A modern writer has apportioned approximately equal parts, which he calls "years of prepara-tion, years of labor and years of pleasure."

"The years of pleasure" are sup-posed to begin at about forty, five, at which age a man is to retire from active business and devote himself to those hobbies and pursuits for which the earlier years were too crowded. But, too many men are caught unaware by middle age and suddenly find only destitution or dependence ahead of them.

Let us tell you about our simple, small sums systematically invested will be returned to you, greatly increased by the magic of compound interest, in substantial annuities, whenever you decide that your "years of pleasure" have arrived. If you will follow this plan we GUARANTEE an independent income for your later years.

Croesus' Guess

Conquests and unlimited power was the vision of Croesus, King of Lydia. When he asked the Oracle at Delphi if he should attack Cyrus the Oracle replied, "If you attack, a great kingdom will be destroyed."

Croesus guessed at the hidden meaning and led his army in the attack, but the Persian army defeated him, overran his country and laid his principal cities in ruins.

Many people today make a "Croesus guess" in purchasing investments and often find too late that they have taken too great a chance. Wise investors select solid, conservative investments, such as the first mortsage notes issued by Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., whose past record of over sixty years without loss to an investor makes their purchase no guesswork. You, too, can be assured of safety and a steady 6% return by making your next investment in these first

ON FIGHT TICKETS

By WESTEROOK PEGLER

New YORK, Aug. 6.—Inasmuch as the operations of the prize fight, profession do not hurt any one except the combatants, who are well paid for the risks they assume in the fight, there is no urgent reason for its abolition in the State of New York. On the other hand, there is no practical or esthetic reason, urgent or remote, for its preservation. There has been some informal discussion lately of an appeal to Gov. Boosevelt to accept the resignations of the boxing commissioners and extinguish the cauliflower industry stain by the negative process of omitting to appoint other commissioners in their places. If the governor should do this, the profession would go into a state of suspended animation for an indefinite period, perhaps for some years. I assume that the resignations of the boxing commissioners were made out to the governor as of blank dates when he was inaugurated.

New YORK, Aug. 6 (N.Y.W.N.S.). If Ray Baruti, the Olympic 400-meter champion, who was suspended for failure to substantiate charges of profesionalism which reflected on A. A. U. officials, really desires reinstatement, President Avery Brundage, of that organization, holds open the door for him in the letter to Barbuth he makes public tomorrow. After approving a letter drafted for him by Secretary Dan Perris, according to Ferris, Barbuth repudiated it as "degrading and untruthful."

The letter in effect was nothing more than an acknowledgment by Barbuth of the obvious fact that he can not prove his charges and hence withdraws them, with apologies to the organization. In his letter to Barbuth Brundage makes it clear that he does not believe Barbuth made the charges maliciously; indeed, he tacitly admits that to some extent they probably are true, although not susceptible of proof. Surely there would be nothing "degrading or untruthful" in withdrawing charges Barbuth admits he can not prove, or in formally apologizing for embarrassing the A. A. U. Would Eliminate

Legion Finals. On League Program

Brentwood to Oppose Dixie Pig Nine in One of Features.

Aces Play Hartfords in Outstanding Senior Clash.

THE Brentwood Hawks and Dixle Pig Nines, neighborhood rivals and at present involved in a three-cornered tie for third place, will meet in one of the feature games of Sunday's Capital City League unlimited schedule. The two teams and their numerous followers are prepping for this important engagement, which will partially aid in sifting out an ultimate winner in the heated title race now in progress.

Greatly handicapped by the fact that a large portion of the team is lost at this time, as many of the regulars leave for college before the completion of the series, the Hawks have made a bid to fill the gaps left in the line-up in an effort to repeat their early season conquests over the Barbecus Nine.

Homer Drissel, Richard Turner,

Homer Drissel, Richard Thines, Samuel Miller, John Demarest, Julius Forrest, Gordon Albee, Stanley O'Donnell, Harry Ensor and Jules Sorrell, mostly regulars, have been lost to the Brentwood Nine. Their loss has left many important positions to be filled.

Hawkes Have Revamped
Their Line-up.

In an effort to keep the Hawks in the figit, Manager Ellison has signed George McArdoo, Erwin Wade, Hyacinh Licarione, William O'Donnell, Ellis Johnston, William Wolfe, Richard Wingate, Julius Gerhardt and George Beck.

Gerhardt is a former Hawk hurler, who injured his arm earlier in the season. He is expected to prove a big aid during the pennant drive.

The Auth and National Press Building Cardinal Nines will also aid in unraveling the tangle now existing in the unlimited section. At present the Cards are tied for the lead with the Dixle Pigs, and the Authmen are just one game to the rear, but, nevertheless, intrenched in sixth place. Neither can afford to take the shortend Sunday.

Try-Me Aces Unbeaten In 3 Starts.

n Joignes.

Two senior nines will meet in the ther outstanding league battle listed or the Sabbath. The Try-Me Aces, indefeated in three starts, and the fartfords, boasting three wins in four tarts, clash at 11 o'clock on No. 4 liamond. To the victor goes the eague lead.

Other interest will center about the final series of the American Legion teams on Saturday and Sunday. A District championahip team will be selected in this series to compete for the national title.

County Teams Meet To Arrange for Series

Montgomery County teams will meet tonight at the home of Garrett Waters, 6903 Fifth street northwest, at 8 o'clock for the purpose of forming a baseball series for the county championship. Those expected to make up the circuit include the Takoma Tigers, Silver Spring Giants, Rockville Athletic Club, Kensington Firemen. Bethesda Athletic Club, Laurel Athletic Club and Chevy Chase Grays.

The Hisers will squeeze in a game on Saturday against the Washington Collegians at 3 o'clock on the Riverdale diamond. Players are requested to report to this encounter also.

humored tolerantes. Still, some of them complain bitterly about the degradation of a sport, forgetting that a title is the property of the holder to dispose of as he sees fit.

A champion may lose the respect of the public, of course, but that contingency is taken into consideration in computing the selling price of the title. The customer, on his part, has the right to yell scornful remarks. If he feels that the price of this privilege "as excessive, he should acknowledge that he has simply made a bad bargain. If the customer suffers no actual harm then, for whose protection should prize fighting be abolished? The puglist himself often comes to harm. His ears are damaged, handsome hook noses become retrousse, teeth are removed and the brain is addled by repeated impacts.

Commonplace Slugger

But the most commonplace fighter if he be diligent, may retire with $50,000 after seven or eight years in achieved anything higher than upper medicority has bowed himself out with $100,000. The deep-sea diver gets $5 an hour for much more hazardous work, and no diver ever lived who could stay under water long enough to gross $50,000, much less put that much by. Structural from workers, jute-mill hands and painters work in serious jeopardy, and those who quit with $100,000 clear are comparatively few.

As to the relative value to the public of the services rendered by the pugilist and those (wen by the trades mentioned, there can be no argument. Self-reliance, chivalry and honor are priceless virtues, and the younger generation learns them at the ringside, not by watching divers, iron workers, mill hands and painters.

Walter Derrick's eyebrows met, "Lavinsk!? Was that his name? Sounds like a foreigner to me!" He laughed with great heartiness at this banaity, and Dick wished for a long time after he'd gone that he hadn't. He settled himself down to pass away the hours that would intervene before the arrival of Mary on her mysterious errand. He had ceased to be puzzled, ceased to wonder. He had speculated upon Mary's peculiar behaviour until his head reeled. Minns had brought the coffee in and had set the tray solemnly on the table when, for no reason at all beyond the sudden impulse which prompted the question, Dick asked: "Have you ever been in South Africa, Minns?"

Dick turned in his chair to face the man.
"When was this?"
"After his lordship the late earl died, sir, when Master Thomas, as we called him, was still a child. I took service in South Africa."
Now there is a peculiar expression, familiar to every experienced police officer, a kind of embarrassment born of uncomfortable self-consciouaness, and this dawned and faded in Minns face. It was only there for the fraction of a second, but long enough to be detected.
"Minns," said Dick softly, "were you ever in trouble in South Africa?"
The man licked his lips.
"Yes, sir," he said huskily. "There was an accusation made against me."
"For stealing?"
Minns had gone very pale.
"Yes, sir. I was perfectly innocent."
"Were you convicted?"
The man shook his head.
"No, sir." Then the ghost of a smile hovered on his lips. "I was one of those innocent men who really was innocent! The court dismissed the case, though I will tell : u this nuch—it was touch and go, until fortunately the real criminal was found though he was never caught."

SOUTH IS CRITICIZED FOR LABOR POLICIES

general labor policy of the South at the present time is not only opposed to the best interests of Southern industry, but is an obstacle to the prosperity of the country as a whole.

This was the opinion expressed by W. Jett Lauck, chairman of advisory council, Bureau of Applied Economics, in a speech today at the Institute of Political Affairs, in session at the University of Virginia.

The South generally did not take part in the industrial revolution which started in the Unived States in 1923 and which is credited with the era of post-war prosperity, Mr. Lauck stated. The law of supply and demand, he said, still determines waget in the South and the labor union has not been accepted as a permanent institution of modern industrial life.

"From the standpoint of practical objectives," he observed, "the South is not following the right labor policy retards the prosperity of the Southern States and interferes with the realization of their maximum industrial schlevement. tion of their maximum industria tire upon the new American industrial program,

"It was the effort to revive the prostrated industry and trade of the country after the year 1922 that finally led to this new American industrial regime. Up to the beginning of 1923, a policy of wage defiation and a general reduction in costs and prices had been adopted in the attempt to revivity trade and industry and to restore the country to prosperous economic conditions. This procedure was unsuccessful, and it was then that the new era was inaugurated by a group of industrialists and public officials, of which one of the chief spokesmen was the then Secretary of Commerce, Herbert

Quotes Hoover Contention.

Quotes Hoover Contention.

"In the early part of 1923, Mr. Hoover took issue with those who since 1920 had adopted the fallacious alogan of "a return to normalcy" in the sense of a deflation of wages, working conditions and prices to prewar standards. He contended that the road to plenty was in another direction. "We must get our minds away," he said, 'from the notion that prewar standards of living and volume of business would be normal now. Normalcy is a vastly higher and more comfortable standard than 1913.' Along with those of kindred views, the claim was made that during the past decade the volume of inviews, the claim was made that during the past decade the volume of industrial production had been greatly increased; labor had become more productive; higher wages had been made possible, and this, in turn, had enabled industrial workers to purchase more of the necessities and comforts of life.

"The road to permanent and conmforts of life.

"The road to permanent and conantly advancing prosperity, it was erefore pointed out, lay in the imination of waste from industry, e standardization of output, the creased use of machines to extend ass production methods and to reice labor and other costs of proiction. Under these conditions, it as asserted that working conditions duction. Under these conditions, it was asserted that working conditions in mines and mills might be improved, the length of the work-week shortened, wage rates indeterminately increased, labor and other costs, as well as prices to consumers, concurrently reduced, and, at the same time, generous returns to invested capital and industrial management maintained.

South Rejects Program.

"The South alone, as a section, in its labor policy has, in general, failed to accept this new constructive program. There are exceptions, of course, but, as a whole, Southern industrial leaders in their procedure are still clinging to the discarded and discredited wage theories and working conditions of the prewar period. It is still believed and practiced that low rates of pay to wage earners are synonymous with low labor costs. In some of the basic industries of the South, as in the textile mills and other undertakings, there has been greater mechanization and the adoption of improved methods to increase output and to lower cots, but no recognition of the fact that a greater participation in increased output should be given to labor in the form of higher wages or better working conditions. The old, dismal law of supply and demand is still invoked as the basis of wage determination. The labor union has not been accepted as a permanent and inevitable institution of modern industrial life."

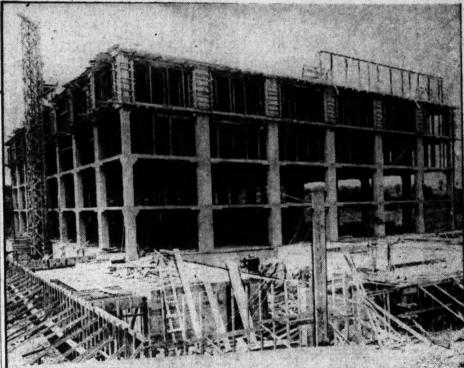

Manufactures in the eleven States comprising Southern Confederacy increased 2,300 per cent between 1880 and 1925, Dr. Abraham Berglund, professor of economic history in the University of Virginia, said in the roundable discussion of "economic and industrial development of the South" at the institute. the Old Dominion is making such rapid progress as a fruit-producing State—so rapid, in fact, that the Empire States place as the second largest producing area is being threatened. In Virginia the New Yorkers will see young orchards, many of which have just come into bearing, in contrast with their 20-year-old trees.

This Virginia tour, in response to an invitation extended last summer by Gov. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, himself the largest orchard operator in the East, is sponsored by the New York State Horticultural Society, the New York State Farm Bureau and the agriculture department of Cornell University.

Leaving Winchester on Thursday morning the New York party will arrive in Shenandonh County about 9 o'clock. The orchards of Judge Tavenner. Ripley Walker and the Turkey Knob Co., in the Mount Jackson area, will be visited. The Empire State tourists then will visit Shenandosh Caverns and have lunch at that underground resort.

The great Timberville orchard area of northern Rockingham County will be the scene of the next stop. The New Yorkers will visit Timberville just at the time that the bulk of the record peach crop is beginning to move. Prof. F. A. Motz. Virginis State horticulturist, will escort the tourists about the Timberville area and call their attention to the modern methods in vogue there.

Thursday night will be spent in Harrisonburg, where the chamber of commerce has arranged a reception for the visitors. This will include a general get-together session of New York and Virginia apple growers.

Breakfasting here early Friday morning, the New Yorkers will visit several orchards in the Chestnut Ridge area, near Harrisonburg, and then proceed down the Valley pike to Staunton.
